

SPRING 2010 SYDNEY ROYAL FINE FOOD SHOW
1-10 SEPTEMBER

HURRY, ENTRIES CLOSE 14 JULY

Entries are open for the Spring 2010 Sydney Royal Fine Food Show, featuring several new classes and Championship awards in the Olive Oil, Regional Food, Branded Lamb and Deli Meat Competitions.

Royal Agricultural Society of NSW (RAS) Fine Food Committee Chair Lyndey Milan, says new additions to the Spring schedule will showcase more of the country's top producers.

"Changes to the Olive Oil competition include awards for Champion Boutique Extra Virgin Olive Oil and Champion Commercial Extra Virgin Olive Oil,

"Judges are also looking forward to critiquing new classes for specialty olive products and tapenade style products," said Ms Milan.

A recent revision of the Branded Lamb competition will now see classes judged on weight. Producers entering the grass, grain and open class now have two options, they can submit their product in the 20-23kg class or the 24-26kg class.

Always in line with current consumer trends other changes include the Regional Food Competition adding a verjuice class.

There are new sausage classes in the Deli Meat competition. A specific class for traditional sausages representing a country of origin style will be added to include South African Boerwors, Italian Sausages and Bratwurst.

The Sydney Royal Fine Food Show recognises and rewards innovation, diversity and excellence in agricultural production. Producers are encouraged to enter the Regional Food, Deli Meat, Olive Oil, Branded Beef and Branded Lamb competitions.

"Winning a medal at the Sydney Royal Fine Food Show is the highest accolade possible and a testament to the high quality of a company's product," said Lyndey Milan.

Entries close Wednesday 14 July, 2010.
