Welcome from the President

Congratulations on your Sydney Royal Champion win and subsequent nomination to compete for the 15th Annual President's Medal.

Sydney Royal competitions have been held since our formation in 1822, but it was in 1998 that our modern-day and highly recognised Fine Food competitions were launched, beginning with olive oil and coffee, pasta and then aquaculture. Since then we have uncovered incredible food and drink offerings for consumers across Australia and the world. Our competitions have grown every year and evolved to follow trends and consumer demand.

These competitions support not only our mission to improve the quality of agricultural produce through competition but also our vision for a community that understands and values award-quality produce. Your decision to enter our competitions and your preparedness to be judged and receive feedback demonstrates notable passion and commitment in your pursuit of excellence and has seen this acknowledged with an invitation to take the next step.

Launched in 2006 to promote and ultimately reward the finest produce in Australia, the President's Medal is the highest honour awarded following our Sydney Royal competitions. Only products of outstanding excellence are eligible for consideration for this unique award, one that takes a whole-of-company approach, and one that judges food, dairy producers, brewers and winemakers against each other.

To receive a Sydney Royal Champion title for your product you have already been assessed on its quality, appearance and taste. You have been benchmarked against other producers in your field and judged to be the very best.

The President's Medal takes the competition to the next level with an examination that goes well beyond taste or palate. Your business model, community engagement strategy and production techniques encompassing sustainability will be closely looked at. Our panel of judges will carry out an on-site review and get to know you and your business, it is an intensive and invasive process but necessary before the awarding of such a prestigious award.

The integrity of each competition rests on our judges, their professionalism, knowledge, and high ethical standards ensure the entire judging process is beyond reproach. Their dedication to the Australian food and beverage industries is to be commended. Under their careful gaze we will continue to encourage and reward excellence, and in turn provide incentives to excel for all in the Australian food, dairy, beer and wine industries.

I hope that your experience as an outstanding Sydney Royal Champion is richly rewarding, and I encourage you to continue on this President's Medal journey.

Testimonials from President's Medal Alumni

We couldn't believe our ears when they announced Gumnut Patisserie as the winner of the 14th RAS of NSW President's Medal. To say we were honoured would be an understatement. The businesses we were up against were all awesome and we were pretty stunned that we had been named in the top six, but then to hear our little Patisserie in the Southern Highlands to be named as the winner was amazing. The reason we started the Gumnut Patisserie in the first place is so we as a couple could work together. Fast forward 26 years we have a team of 60+ including our four children, that we like to call our Gumnut Family. This is a whole team achievement, and we would also like to take this opportunity to thank our Gumnut Family, past and present. This prestigious award was such an honour to win, the Gumnut Patisserie will now forever be known as a President's medal winner.

Tracy & Vicki Nickl, The Gumnut Patisserie – 14th Annual President's Medal Winner

Winning such a prestigious award has been an enormous honour. We are proud to be part of a growing enthusiasm for Australian Agribusiness, especially innovative food production from paddock to plate and the President Medal win is acknowledgement of the enormous work and effort by our Meredith Dairy team. Meeting the growing demand for specialty dairy products has been challenging so it is really fantastic to be recognised for meeting those challenges.

Julie and Sandy Cameron, Meredith Dairy – 13th Annual President's Medal Winner

We are thrilled to have been recognised as the first professional bakery and finalist to win both the RAS of NSW President's Medal and the NSW Department of Primary Industries Innovation Award. Winning these Awards motivates us to continue with our pursuit of crafting products of high quality and integrity. This is not an individual Award but a collective recognition of the hard work and support from all our staff, farmers and industry partners who have been involved on this journey to celebrate the source. Because of their support, today we can now put a loaf of bread on the table and tell you what paddock it is from and that is extremely important!

Michael Klausen, Brasserie Bread – 12th Annual President's Medal Winner

We are really humbled and honoured to win this prestigious award", said co-founder of Cobram Estate Rob McGavin.

What we are especially proud of is that the quality of what we are able to produce at Cobram Estate is readily available to everyone in Australia at an affordable price.

Rob McGavin, Cobram Estate - 11th Annual President's Medal Winner

When they announced we had won, I almost had to pinch myself. I believed in our product, but we were in such esteemed company that we never presumed we would take first place.

Publicity around the awards has been extremely helpful when dealing with new distributors, restaurants and chefs. They have either heard of our cobia because of our achievements or are keen to know more particularly because the President's Medal is such a revered accolade and a known indicator of high-quality produce.

The win will help us continue to grow and ensure we are in the right market. We were just starting to gain a little exposure at prestige events such as the Spring Racing Carnival and Grand Prix in Melbourne, but the President's Medal is opening more doors for us, creating a wider range of opportunities for our fine cobia to be featured and enjoyed.

Maria Mitris, Pacific Reef Fisheries – 10th Annual President's Medal winner

15TH ANNUAL PRESIDENT'S MEDAL JUDGING PANEL

The President's Medal Judges come from a range of industry sectors and are selected based on their knowledge and expertise in sustainable food and beverage production. The President's Medal Judges have the final authority to arbitrate the awarding of points and selection of Finalists.

The President's Medal Judges for the 15th Annual President's Medal are as follows:

Michael Bullen - Judge

Michael Bullen has extensive experience in the agriculture, water and sustainability space across Government and the private sector.

His most recent role was to drive the development of new business and jobs and the establishment of an AgriBusiness Precinct for Western Sydney around the new airport. The intent for the AgriBusiness Precinct is to establish a food production, processing and supply chain that can deliver fresh produce, pharma and food globally within 24 hours.

Prior to this role Michael was Deputy Director General Investment and Business Development in the NSW Department of Primary Industries (DPI), and prior to this, led DPI Agriculture, including as Chief Executive of the Rural Assistance Authority. Michael was responsible for developing DPI's new framework for Research and Development, new business structures and funding as well as the establishment of the GATE (Global Ag-Tech Ecosystem - www.thegate.org.au) at Orange NSW.

Before joining DPI Michael was Chief Executive of the Sydney Catchment Authority (now part of WaterNSW) and prior to this worked for Forests NSW across both plantation and native forest management.

Michael chaired the Primary Industries National Research and Innovation Committee while with DPI, which is charged with overseeing strategy and investment under the Primary Industries Research and Development Framework.

Ed Halmagyi - Judge

For nearly twenty years 'Fast Ed' Halmagyi has been one of Australia's best-loved chefs, sharing his simple and time-conscious approach to food with audiences through TV, print, radio and digital media. He even produces his own magazine, Roughcut, for the thinking cook.

Best-known as the cooking presenter on Better Homes and Gardens, he uses his decades of experience in some of the world's best kitchens to transform elegant cuisine into recipes that anyone can prepare at home. Ed's motto is simple, "when you do less, the ingredients can do more!" But it is in Ed's passion for bakery that you will find his key philosophy of food: "cooking is a process of transformation where simple yet perfect flavours become unforgettable meals". For Ed, it is all about "great food, made easy"!

When he's not in the kitchen or travelling the world in search of flavours, Ed is an award-winning commercial photographer and undertakes significant charity work..

8. JUDGING CRITERIA

Nominee and Finalist Exhibits will be assessed on the following criteria:

JUDGING CRITERIA	POINTS
The effective management of environmental, social and financial sustainability issues (henceforth referenced as the Triple Bottom Line) confronting the business or businesses from which the Exhibit is derived. Effective management of these issues is deemed to reflect sustainable production practices and hence food and beverage products which can claim the highest level of product integrity. Judging will similarly take into account the sustainability of up-stream and down-stream businesses which provide inputs and services embodied in the Finalist Exhibit. The elements of the Triple Bottom Line are: Environmental Sustainability: This includes the effective management of current and emerging impacts of the business on the environment. This element of the judging requires Exhibitors of Nominee and Finalist Exhibits to have high levels of awareness of environmental assets in their region, the relative scarcity of those assets and current and emerging community priorities with respect to the protection of those assets. Exhibitors of Nominee and Finalist Exhibits should be aware of the impacts of the business on environmental assets, and/or have strategies in place by which business impact can be progressively assessed and mitigated over time. Judging will also consider how well environmental business strategy reflects the respective roles that individual business owners, their industry more broadly and the community can play in environmental management. Social Sustainability: This includes the relationship of the business to people, i.e. people 'within' and 'external' to the business. Issues internal to the business will have a strong focus on workforce management, i.e. staff turnover, career development, staff engagement, workforce incentives and cohesion in being integrally involved in driving sustainable business outcomes. Issues external to the business will include levels of awareness and proactive management of current and prospective business impacts on local and regional communities, and local and regional community engagement in business strategy. Also taken into account will be the effective management of health, safety and welfare impacts that might currently or prospectively relate to Exhibit consumption. Financial Sustainability: This includes business having effective financial monitoring procedures in place which enable early detection of problems, or opportunities, thereby facilitating effective adaptive management by the business. High levels of awareness of current and prospective business risks are expected, supported by an appropriate risk management strategy.	60 Points
Innovation in Achieving Environmental, Social and Financial Business Sustainability and Associated Exhibit Integrity Food and beverage businesses that strive to be at the forefront of current and emerging consumer preferences and associated sustainable production practices, will often be those that develop and 'early adopt' innovative business, production and marketing practices. Willingness to innovate will often reflect market leadership and close consideration by the business of emerging consumer preferences. It follows that such businesses will be at the forefront of driving industry competitiveness in domestic and export markets. Judges will therefore take into consideration business awareness of the current and emerging drivers of innovation in product markets, and how the business has responded and plans to respond. Innovation will relate to the achievement of financial, social and environmental outcomes and may relate to the adoption of new or past practices. Importantly, Judges will also consider the passion with which Exhibitors pursue product development that aligns with the emerging business challenges/risks and consumer preferences.	40 Points
